INNOVATION MANAGER

Biel, le 1 octobre 2024

Throughout my career, I have been driven by a simple idea: turning challenges into opportunities. This conviction has guided me at the bcom Foundation, where I have had the opportunity to collaborate with startups and multidisciplinary teams to bring high-impact technological projects to life.

My role has often been to bridge complex ideas, diverse talents, and advanced technologies to transform them into tangible solutions. I have a strong affinity for innovation and creation, areas where I feel truly in my element, always ready to imagine, test, and realize new ideas.

As an expert in collective intelligence, I enjoy working in teams, leveraging each person's skills to achieve solid and sustainable results. This is how I approach complex environments—navigating agilely between technological challenges and human needs.

Always seeking new approaches, I am currently training in AI tools, no-code platforms, and I have started learning German. Continuous learning is essential for me to stay at the forefront of innovation, both in terms of technology and methodologies.

I am convinced that my background and my ability to connect ideas and talents can contribute to the momentum you wish to create. Whether it involves identifying promising opportunities or developing strategic collaborations, I bring a solution-oriented perspective, always focused on innovation and growth.

I look forward to contributing to this ambitious vision and actively participating in the creation of an innovative and sustainable future.
